Raymond W. Fairchild, Ph.D., LL.D.
President, Illinois State Normal University

The head of ISNU for twenty years, President Raymond W. Fairchild, saw two important steps toward future campus development take place during the winter months. Approval was given for a Student Union site and for construction of two new dormitories.

In addition to being instrumental in the construction of new buildings, sidewalks, flower beds, and repairs on older buildings, Dr. Fairchild also spent much of his time working directly with the students. For example, the president adjusted his busy schedule to meet with a "student leader" group on the average of twice a month. Composed of heads from all-campus activities, the group met to discuss problems affecting the whole campus. The meetings, of course, consisted of discussion rather than policy formation.

This year Dr. Fairchild also continued his policy of participating in community affairs, attending all Teacher's College Board meetings, and acting on visitation committees for other universities.

President Fairchild celebrates 20th year;

Mrs. Howard Hancock, Mrs. Fairchild, Mrs. Robert Fairchild, and Ralph Fairchild listen to Dr. Fairchild's remarks at a banquet in his honor.

The President's student leader group—Betty Rave, Keith Weiss, Gene Haffman, Sylvia Lemanski, and Barbara Jacobs—is caught in a lighter vein.

looks to future

President and Mrs. R. W. Fairchild took the seats of honor at a banquet in Fell Hall last October. The occasion was their twentieth anniversary as ISNU leader and "adviser."

Mr. Howard Hancock summed up the President's service to the university when he said, "It takes a lot of aspirin to run a university for twenty years." Acting as master of ceremonies, Mr. Hancock also introduced Miss Mabel C. Allen, who gave a few informal remarks.

Following Dr. Fairchild's response, the group presented the two honorees with a RCA table model television set.

At the following day's football game with Beloit, the campus head was recognized during halftime. The Redbird Marching Bands also performed appropriate musical numbers.

Guests greet the Fairchilds in the receiving line.

Step right this way and get some ice cold watermelon; don't crowd; there's enough for everyone. Hey you, isn't this your second time around?

Tours, tests, teas, and throngs:

Freshmen folded up swimming suits, put away golf clubs, and followed the crowd to ISNU. Homesickness — that dread disease — did not have a chance to descend as newcomers plunged into the activities of orientation week.

The well planned schedule got under way with an assembly, the first introduction to college life. Meetings with the deans, department heads, and county counselors preceded tours of the town and campus. Tests—English, Reading, Social Science, and Psychological—required brain work and occupied time between mixers and movies. Along with other university students, freshmen suffered registration agonies before enjoying the first major social event of the year, the all school party.

And over here, ladies and gentlemen, is the gingko tree.

Bessie Jerus gets an official OK from the dean.

Go to I-103—Show your ID card—Fill out these forms—Proceed to table two—These and other instructions reached the ears of ISNU students as they were confronted with the ordeals of registration.

With a little perseverance and patience, students were able to wend their way through the endless lines to the bookstore. Here stacks of texts were heaped in their arms and they were enrolled for a new semester.

Fell Hall's dame light stems from Old Main, which had a similar one in early days. It is an established ISNU landmark.

... and Fell Hall

Time for socializing and bringing out the talents of freshmen residents.

On several occasions during the year, Fell Hall women "go formal."

Not only do the residents enjoy the modern conveniences of the dorm but also the fact that it is only a stone's throw from Barton Hall.

... and Dunn Hall

Dunn Hall, built in 1950, is the residence of one hundred fifty-six male students.

Dr. Mildred Weils questions her upperclassmen about their philosophies of education in this course taken by all students before graduation.

No matter how students try to get around the fact, classes constitute the major portion of college life. From the freshman year on, students may take a variety of courses—some required, some electives, and some "required electives."

Not only do prospective teachers get a wide background in their major field, but they also take many worthwhile education courses. From American Public Education 101, undergraduates progress to Philosophy of Education 203.

Classes, student

Bill Kinsella answers questions thrown at him by his junior high art class. As mast seniors, Bill daes his teaching assignment an campus.

Many seniors miss assembly programs—and they do it legally. In fact, instead of listening to a lecture for an hour, seniors often find themselves giving a little lecture now and then. Those lucky people who do do not have to count their "limit of three" are the student teachers.

These examples of "learning by doing" discover that the books do not print everything. But about the time the first week of actual teaching is finished, things fall into place without too much difficulty.

While seniors are meeting their educational requirement, their fellow students are spending an hour every Wednesday in Capen Auditorium. This year the programs included lectures with colored slides, plain lectures, a Blackfriar riot, gymnastic stunts, and plays.

teaching, and assemblies--all a part of ISNU

Lloyd Atterberry is on his way down after leaping to catch one of Wes Bair's aeriols. Wayne Williams (24) of Southern makes o vain attempt at on interception.

Beloit College's Buccaneers came to Normal with a 13 game winning streak, but went back to the Wisconsin city with a one game losing skein. The Cards waited until the closing minutes of the defensive battle before Wes Bair uncorked a 38 yard aerial to Rog Francour, good to the two yard stripe. From there Milt Kadlec piled over for the deciding marker. Earlier in the contest, Jim Fox had booted a 10 yard field goal for 3 valuable points.

The combination of Wes Bair's passing and Milt Kadlec's running was enough to defeat Southern Illinois as the Redbirds drilled out a one touchdown win over the visiting Salukis, October 2, at McCormick Field, 27-20.

Bair, who led the country's small college passers the previous year, threw for 3 TD's. Kadlec, fresh from the Marine Corps, showed Normal fans he was the same hard runner as in former ISNU days by making scoring runs of 36 and 20 yards.

Beloit's Buccaneers, Southern's Salukis and

Beloit College's Jack Roberts realizes how futile it is to ovoid Rag Francour's awaiting tockle. The 10-6 loss was Beloit's first in 14 games.

Lloyd Atterberry and a Leatherneck player are onxious to get their hcnds on that pigskin. Western's Phil Schmidt moves in to help his team.

Western's Leathernecks tangle with the Redbirds

The Leathernecks of Western proved too tough for the invading Redbirds as the Macomb squad took the measure of Coach Ed Struck's charges, 20-7, October 17.

Milt Kadlec continued to show the power that made him the scourge of the IIAC during the season, as the senior fullback gained 140 yards on the ground.

The rest of the Normal attack bogged down before the hard-charging Leatherneck forward wall. Western's running and punting left little to be desired on the part of Macomb fans.

The Cardinals' only score came after taking the opening kickoff in the second half and marching 85 yards for a touchdown. Kadlec, Francour, and Bair led the charge, with Bair finally flipping a short toss into the end zone where Francour gathered it in. Jim Fox's boot was good for the extra point.

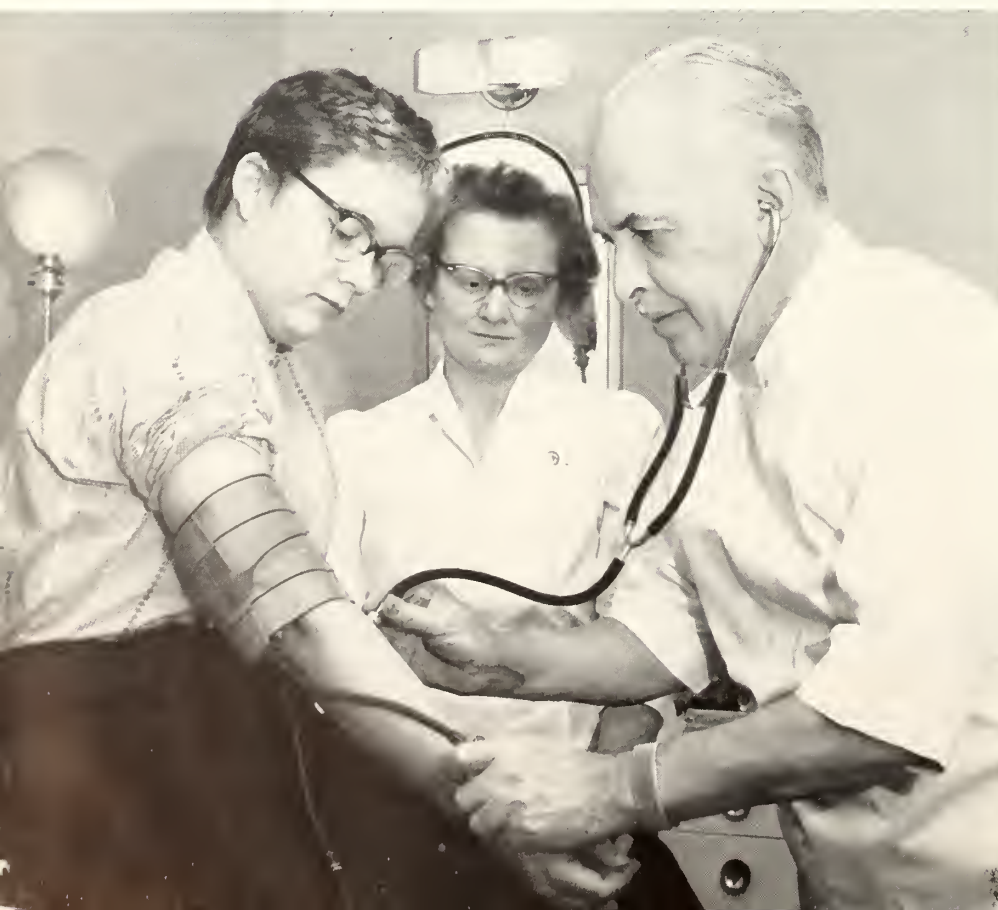

Sitting at the controls and listening for the go ahead signal is Art Workun. Maxine Lynch looks on.

Health Service presents new doctor

Thermometers, pills, and pineapple juice at bed time are standard remedies for anyone who finds himself in the ISNU Health Service. As he lies in bed hovering between life and death from a bad case of flu, cut fingers, or exam fever, attentive nurses are at his call.

Recuperating enough to take interest in life again, he notices that he is in a hospital room with bright drapes, colorful walls and a cheery atmosphere. Meals in bed and a continual supply of ice water at his elbow are also not the least of the attractions.

All in all, the infirmary is the best place for a sick student to recover. The director is Dr. C. W. Hardy and head nurse is Gwyneth Weber.

Jane Haffman is a skeptical but willing patient for Dr. C. W. Hardy and Nurse Weber.

Coach Joe Cogdal's cross country team closed out its 1953 season with a four won, two lost record, and finished high in the standings in two meets.

This year Coach Cogdal relied heavily on the trotting of Captain Vernon Kaliher, Bill Benner, and Jack and Dale Finnell.

The Redbird road men opened up their wins by taking Beloit, 15-45, and Western, 22-33, in a dual meet at Normal. Thereafter they beat Bradley, 15-45, and DeKalb, 25-39, but lost to Eastern, 21-34, and Southern, 26-29.

In meet activity, the Cogdalites finished fifth at Loyola. The Birds rolled up 102 points for their fifth place verdict. In the Interstate Conference Meet at Eastern, the Cards came in fourth as Captain Kaliher paced his squad with a third place finish.

Vernon Kaliher stretches to be the first to break the string of the finish line in the Western-Beloit cross country meet. Western's Knox is just two seconds behind.

Cross Country men again win their share

Jose Greco and two of his company members—one of the most popular programs of the entertainment series this year.

Spanish dancers entertain

With the staccato stomp of feet and clinking of castanets, Jose Greco and his company of Spanish dancers captured the attention and applause of the audience in McCormick Gymnasium in October. Greco's program, entirely based on dances derived from Spanish customs, featured authentic and colorful costumes. His "El Cortijo," a dance depicting four horses in a gallop, and a ballet entitled "Old Madrid" were exceptionally well received by the enthusiastic audience.

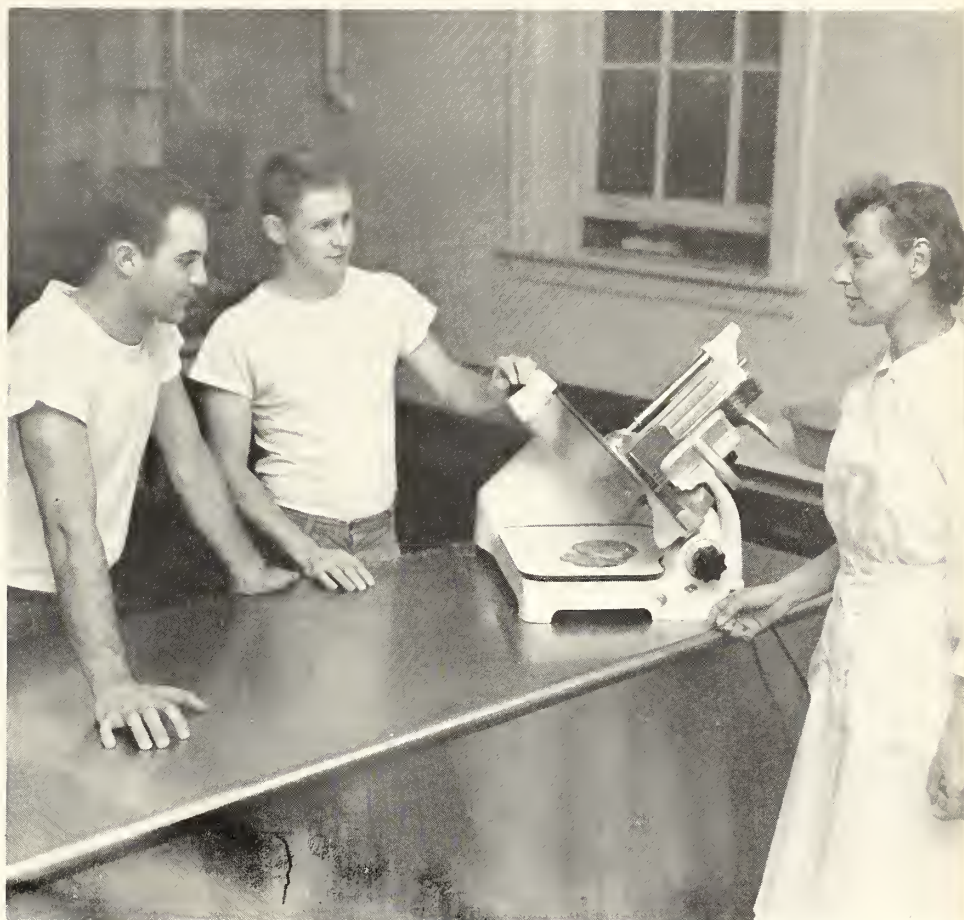

A favorite hangout for college students after all campus events is The Cage.

In the early spring of 1952, The Cage—campus snack bar behind Fell Hall—opened and immediately reached the top of the popularity poll at ISNU. From early morning until late at night, it is the logical place to find one's roommate, keep up with the social whirl, or sit and shred napkins.

Staffed entirely by students, the snack bar is under the direction of Alice Bradford, Director of the University Food Service. Besides The Cage, the Food Service operates five other units—the dormitory dining rooms, Fell Hall Cafeteria, and the Special Education school lunch program.

Miss Alice Bradford gives Ray Torry and Bab Becker instructions about the meat cutter.

Bonfire . . . play . . . parade . . . decorations . . .

Curtain going up! Performances of George M. Cohan's "Seven Keys to Baldpate" were presented Thursday through Saturday nights of Homecoming Week in Capen Auditorium. The plot of the fast-paced mystery-comedy centered around a wager between a writer and the owner of Baldpate Inn. Suspense involving the seven keys mounted to a climax and the end was a surprise.

On Friday night students and alumni attended a bonfire and pep rally and joined other onlookers in watching Saturday's parade, the largest in ISNU history. First prize money for floats went to the Physical Science Club; the Foreign Language Club took top honors for walking entries. This year more money was allotted to the house decorations contest and a larger number of prizes were awarded in the three divisions.

It looks as if everyone turned out for the bonfire and pep rally.

The Fell Hall bap-talking women built a "frant cage" for the football apponents of the day to win the blue ribbon for darmitary decorations.

Seventy enthusiastic members of Men's Glee Club get together for a bit of harmonizing. These popular entertainers were in great demand all year.

Music . . . music . . . music . . .

A few bars of accompaniment . . . four harmonizing pitch notes . . . a pause . . . and the Men's Glee Club began another program of outstanding entertainment. Their musical numbers ranged from sacred hymns to modern compositions. President Al Pizzamiglio and the other officers worked with the elected section council to plan programs and schedules.

Probably one of the busiest organizations on campus, the group sang between acts of the Homecoming play and joined with the other choirs to present the "Messiah" in December. Besides giving several radio broadcasts over Illinois stations, the Glee Club appeared on television. The musical organization spent several days on the road, traveling throughout central Illinois to present their traditional spring program. Their personal appearances both on and off campus were numerous.

Dr. Harlan Peithman directed the group which also provided soloists and ensembles for special entertainment.

With a pleasant smile and cheerful "Hello," Queen Joanne Schmitz greeted her "subjects" during her reign over Homecoming festivities.

Cheering—talking—watching—Homecomers, packed in like sardines, view the proceedings. The red and white black N is a standout across field.

With swinging arms and jaunty step, the men and women of the Redbird marching bands paraded onto the football field at each home game. Their halftime shows on Dad's Day and Homecoming were highlighted events.

As a novelty number, the two bands presented a special show of drummers whose antics and skill delighted the crowds.

The industrious high steppers practiced twice each week under the direction of Wayne F. Sherard in preparation for their performances. Last fall they were invited to DeKalb to march in Northern's homecoming parade, and to Bloomington to participate in the national cornhusking parade.

Their striking red uniforms further attracted attention to the two hundred members of the bands as they were led by drum major Harold Brown and drum majorette Diana Thornton. James Kidoguchi and Dorothy James were the drum sergeants.

Harold Brown's whistle—holt-one-two stops the drum section.

Marching bands perform special stunts

Playing the familiar strains of the Redbird Loyalty, the Men and Women's Marching Bands go into the colorful formation of the famous Normal "N."

An otherwise perfect homecoming celebration received a jolt when Central Michigan bounced over Normal for a 29-19 win before 7,000 fans at McCormick Field, October 30.

The win clinched the conference championship for the Chippewas. A great handicap to the Redbird play was the absence, for most of the game, of quarterback Wes Bair, who was injured in the previous game. It was Milt Kadlec heading the ball-carrying chores, carting the pigskin 26 times for 127 yards.

Bair connected with Rog Francour for the first Normal TD. Another pass from quarterback Herb Raab to Bob Riggerbach accounted for the second.

The final Redbird tally came when half-back Jim York bulled his way over from the one.

With Dan Glasser's Orchestra providing the musical setting, Queen Jaanne Schmitz and attendants Diana Thornton and Marilyn Olsen "lead off."

Strings, brasses, woodwinds, and percussions—all follow their director, Mr. Frank LeJeune, at one of the many symphony orchestra rehearsals.

Practice makes perfect music

The University Symphony Orchestra performed this year under the baton of Mr. Frank LeJeune. This musical group consisted of approximately fifty-five instrumentalists — strings, woodwind, brass, and percussion. The orchestra presented a concert at one of the regular assemblies in November in addition to presenting their traditional spring program in May. Perhaps the most important event on their busy calendar was the annual spring tour. The program centered around the following selections: "Carmen Suite" by Bizet, "London Symphony" by Haydn, "Finlandia" by Sibelius, and "Stradella Orchestra" by Van Flotow. Other compositions included Anderson's "Belle of the Ball," Gould's "Pavanne," and Strauss' "Tales of the Vienna Woods."

President Bill Seymour, Vice-president Mildred Lentz, Secretary Dorothy James, and Librarian Dan Crane were chosen as officers for the year. A spring get-together was the only social function.

"Play softly now," Mr. LeJeune seems to be saying to the violin section.

Judging from the looks on the faces of Cooches Heldt and Struck, the Redbirds are doing fine.

Cheering the team to victory are Dick Bruno, Shirley Romana, Clarice Giffhorn, Dorothy Lawrence, and Marge Patton.

Dad's Day Weekend...

Exclamations of "oh" and "ah" were punctuated by rounds of applause as members of the Redbird Marching Bands performed a novelty act with drums during halftime ceremonies for Dad's Day. The men and women of this sixty piece drum corps played their instruments as they went through crowd-pleasing antics with precision timing.

The drum corps going into formation at the Eastern game.

Normal's hot and cold footballers finished their conference season with a fourth place standing by polishing off the visiting Eastern Illinois Panthers, 20-0, November 14, before a large Dad's Day gathering.

The Birds' first tally came after Rog Francour carried to the Eastern one. Wes Bair then tossed a short over-the-line pass to Lloyd Atterberry for six points. It was Bair again on the throwing end of the ball, flipping the pigskin 22 yards into the arms of Rog Francour for the marker.

Normal's Wayne Sandman, senior guard, got a lineman's thrill of a lifetime by intercepting an Eastern pass and scampering 25 yards for a touchdown. Milt Kadlec carried the ball only 12 times, but managed to pick up 62 yards to lead both teams in that department.

Watch out, Eastern, Milt Kadlec sees that goal line!

a round of activities

The colorful panorama of Moulin Rouge gave a very "arty" atmosphere to the annual Beaux Arts Ball sponsored by the Art Club. A brilliant rampage of art galleries, Toulouse-Lautrec posters, French murals, and street scenes greeted the couples and visiting parents as they attended the first formal dance of the year.

The danceable music of Lorry Lonny's Orchestra and the colorful decorations in McCormick Gym provide a perfect setting for the Beaux Arts Ball.

Harold Brown offers his little sister a doughnut at the post game reception as family and friends smile approval.

Reverend James Staner shares religious views with a small group in the Student Lounge. Discussions were held both on and off campus.

Religious Conference enriches campus life

Amid all the hustle and bustle of an active college life, ISNU students paused to concentrate on their spiritual life as they observed the Fourth Religion and Life Conference in November. The event brought prominent speakers of all creeds to campus. A committee of one hundred students and faculty members arranged for the classroom discussions, special meetings, book display, and art exhibit. Those who wished to have personal conferences also had an opportunity to speak privately with the leaders. Students participated in discussions on marriage and family life, science and religion, religion in college life, and religion in the international world in order to become better acquainted with the theme of the conference, "Living Our Faith." Each of the five days began with a breakfast for the conference leaders and the Committee of One Hundred.

Addressing an all school assembly, Reverend Russell Jones puts the finishing touches to the conference.

In December, work was begun to remove the south porches of Old Main in an effort to "safetyize" the structure. A platform extending from the center door with steps leading to the old concrete landings replaced the porches.

Old Main gets face-lifting; Forensics acquires honors

One of ISNU's busiest and most travelled units is the Forensics squad. Beginning with the student Illinois Legislative Assembly at Springfield in November, the season ends with the West Point Nationals in April. Roger Hufford and Neal Claussen earned the right to enter the national event this year, when they were one of the top six teams at the District Five elimination tournament.

The state oratorical contest found the ISNU speakers second in all events, except women's extemporaneous speaking, where Martha Jacobus topped all other contestants.

In addition to weekly tournaments and intra-squad debates, the speakers were on the programs of many service clubs and high school assemblies in this area. Coordinator and director of the complete forensic program is Dr. Ralph A. Micken, professor of speech.

Roger Hufford and Neol Cloussen discuss with visiting debaters before the local tournament.

Coach Warren Crews' "B" football squad came out all even up this year, winning three games and dropping a like number for a respectable .500 batting average. Opening against a seasoned Northern team, the junior Cardinals failed to score and lost to the Huskie seconds.

Gaining momentum, however, the State Normal eleven beat Eastern in the next outing, 32-20, dropped the next to Western, 12-7, and moved back into the win column by edging Eastern once again, 13-6.

A win streak of two was established with another triumph over Western, 16-7, but a veteran junior college squad from LaSalle-Peru-Oglesby ended the streak and the season for the "B's," 33-14.

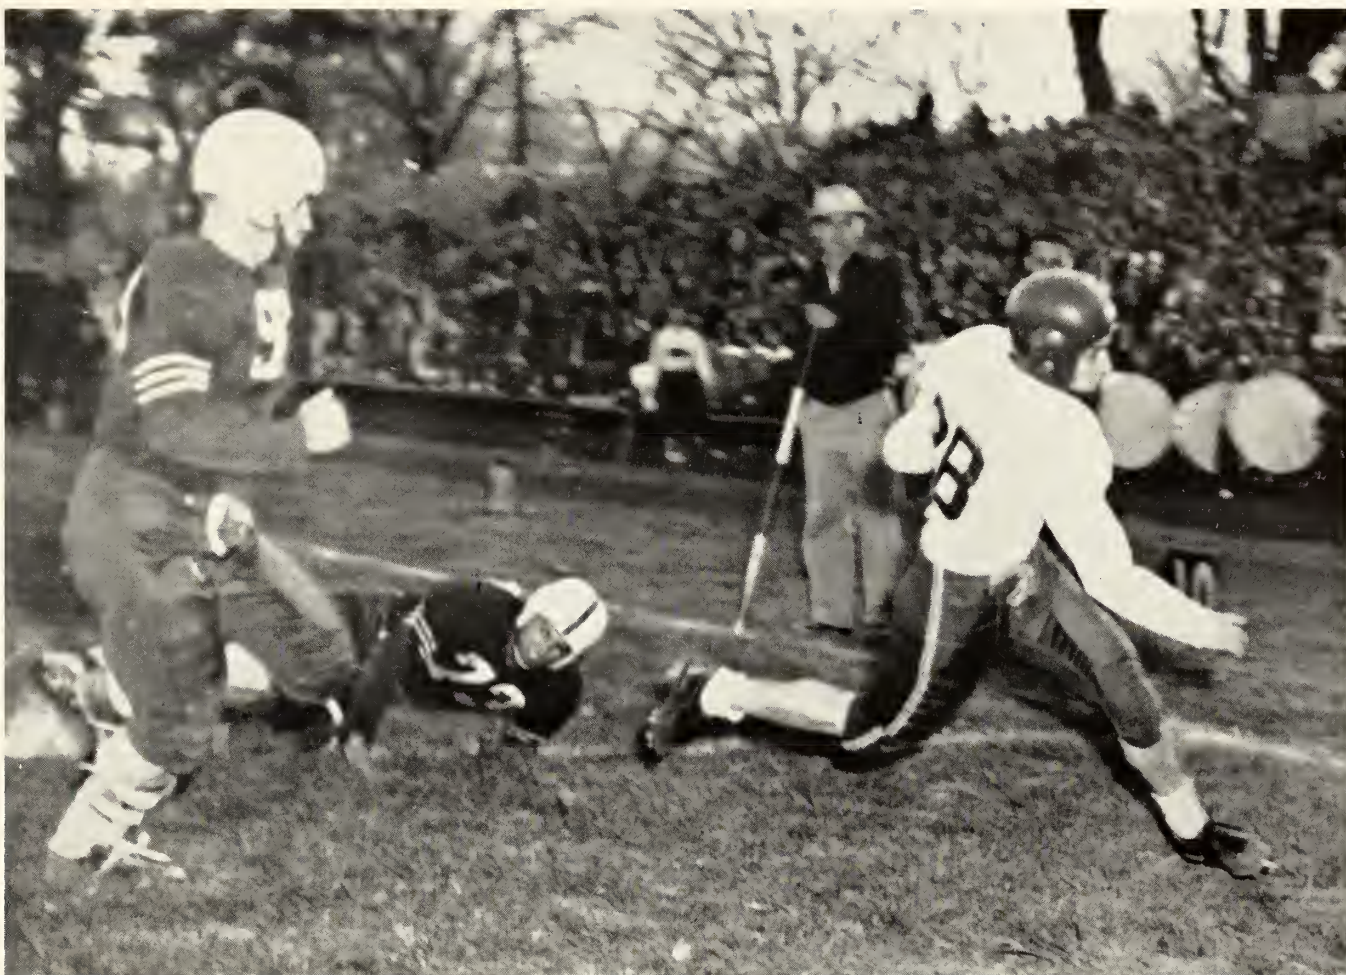

Charlie Hogge is callored by an Eastern player.

Naw if nabady was affside, this touchdown run by Vernel Banister will be worth the final six paints against IWU, and the axe returns to Narmal.

Birds stop Titans in annual clash

The game that Coach Ed Struck and his squad and Coach Libero Bertagnolli and his Wesleyan team look to is the annual battle between the Redbirds and Illinois Wesleyan.

The Green and White from across Division Street came to McCormick Field the weekend before Thanksgiving with little more than a prayer. They possessed even less when they trudged back to "fraternity row," losing to Normal, 13-6.

The Redbirds crossed the Wesleyan goal five times, but three of these were called back because of penalties. Early in the game, Bair threw a 20 yard pass to Rog Francour in the end zone for the first tally.

Wesleyan came back with Gino Cantelli pacing the drive, but a missed extra point made the score, 7-6. Here it remained until the final period when a line plunge from the one yard line by Kadlec provided the score.

The Birdies lined up for the pre-game pep session.

"Marching along together" are Messiah singers.

The sixteenth annual performance of Handel's Messiah was presented by the combined choirs in an afternoon and an evening performance, December 6. Following the recital, the singers and their guests attended a reception in the social rooms of the Administration Building. Approximately two hundred voices resounded through Capen Auditorium as the choral group under the direction of Dr. Emma Knudson concluded the oratorio with the Hallelujah Chorus. They were accompanied by an ensemble composed of faculty members and graduates of the University. Mr. Carl Webb, a former ISNU student, was organist.

In many instances, a double cast of soloists was chosen to enable many students to perform. Separate presentations were also given at Pontiac and Monticello.

"With a screech and a holler," Anna Russell filled Capen Auditorium with an evening of comedy during the interlude between the Thanksgiving and Christmas vacations. Her renditions included advice to concert singers, how to write your own Gilbert and Sullivan opera, and a take-off on the popular song.

Following such events as an entertainment series program, students dashed to The Cage for a coke, before beating the evening deadline. In fact, the campus "hangout" was usually filled to the top of its fibre glass roof at any time of the day.

Almost blacked by admirers, Anna Russell autographs pictures and chats informally.

Tom Edwards, as Thomas A'Becket, defies the Knights in a scene from the Jester December production of T. S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral."

Jesters, formals add to holiday agenda

Historic drama . . . temptations . . . the death of a martyr . . . equal "Murder in the Cathedral." The T. S. Eliot play was presented by the Jesters, December 11, under the direction of Miss Mabel Clare Allen.

As the play opens, Thomas A' Becket, the hero, has returned to Canterbury Cathedral after an exile of seven years. His struggle with four tempters and his decision to stay in England form the plot. Various phases of the action and the pace of the story were set by a choral group.

Using evergreen boughs, a Christmas tree, Biblical scenes and figures, residents gave Smith Hall a holiday atmosphere for the annual formal dance, December 5. Approximately forty couples danced to the music of E. Lierman's Band.

Smiling faces suggest Smith Hall formal.

Illinois Normal's "B" basketball squad, after running through an undefeated schedule the previous year, finally lost a few contests in the 1953-54 season, but only after several of its top players moved up to the varsity five.

Opening against the Bradley freshmen in Peoria, the Bees, led by Jim Olivero, romped to an easy win. In their next outing, Coach Warren Crews' team topped the century mark in scoring, beating Millikin, 100-85.

The Springfield Junior College went down twice in succession, losing to the rampaging Bees, 94-58 and 93-46. About this time, Jim Olivero, Les Hellemann, and Al Meyer moved up to the varsity, leaving the Bees shorthanded; but they finished with a respectable 9-3 record.

Coach James Goff's Redbirds gained revenge for a loss incurred last season when they bested the Quincy Hawks at McCormick Gymnasium, 85-62.

The visitors from the west began rolling in a style indicating a close contest, but quickly fizzled out and played a brand of ball making them easy meat for the Cardinals.

Fred Marberry, the Manual Magician, enjoyed one of his better nights, making 30 points to top the Birdie scoring. The late minutes' appearance of Jim Olivero, Normal's speedy guard, pepped up an otherwise dull game. Jim made two shots in two fast attempts and dazzled the visitors with a brand of ball handling seldom seen.

On the Quincy side of the ledger, Don Massa, a small but shifty guard, played an exceptionally fine floor game.

Ed Hayes barrels in for two paints against the Hawk quintet.

The record went flying out the window of McCormick Gymnasium when the Basketball Birds scored 109 points in toppling Northern Illinois. The Huskies came in second with 75 markers.

This point output marked the second time during the season that the Cards broke the record. They gather 108 in crushing Eureka, 108 to 54.

Bill Sarver added his magic touch to the scoring column, counting 25 points in a game that saw an even scoring attack by the Birds.

Les Hellemann, a sophomore not even listed on the program, accounted for 17 points, while one of the deadliest jump shot artists Normal has seen in years, Fred Marberry, dunked in 18 counters.

and slip by Eastern, 96-95

In a game that is still being debated, especially by Eastern Illinois fans, State Normal topped the Panther basketekers, 96-95, in McCormick Gymnasium.

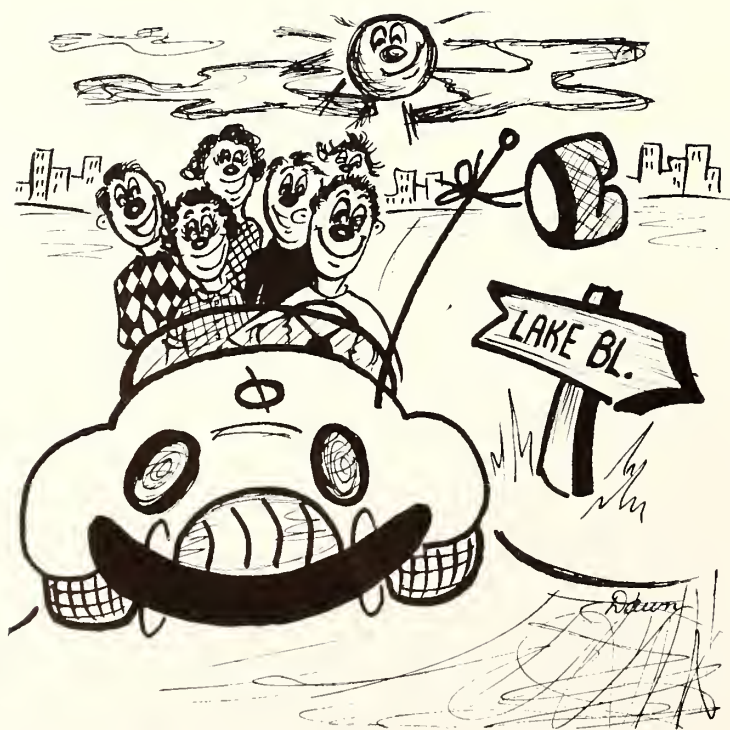

With the score, 95-95, ISNU's Bob Riggenschank sank a free throw making it 96 for the Birds. He intentionally missed the second shot, and the Panthers, thinking the same 3 seconds that were on the clock when the free throws started were still there, grabbed the ball and prepared to race down the floor.

The clock had not stopped, and the game was over before Eastern had a chance to score. An attempt was made by officials to re-play the final 3 seconds of the game, but the crowd was on the floor, and Eastern chose not to return to the scene.

A pocked "house" of spectators goze intently at the exciting floor ploy.

"First couple out to the couple on the right and circle four hands round . . ." can mean only one thing—square dancing. Recently a group of zealots under the guidance of Dr. Miriam Gray and Dr. Gwen Smith provided for a special WRA program exclusively featuring square dancing.

The dancers learned to call their own figures and were available for giving demonstrations for interested clubs and organizations. They met bi-monthly for the entertainment and activity that square dancing provides.

Titans triumph

When the president of one of the universities participating can't get in to see his own team play, then that's a sign that the gym is crowded. This is the condition that existed at the second meeting of Wesleyan and ISNU in McCormick Gymnasium. There was not even standing room left when President Holmes from Wesleyan arrived.

The game, as in most Redbird-Titan tilts, was a close one, with the Green Knights finally taking home the "cake," 95-89. Bill Sarver, who set a new Wesleyan home floor record in the first meeting of the squads, could only hit for 22 markers in the second of the two game series.

Fran Conlee, making use of an unconscious fade-away shot, led Coach Jack Horenberger's visitors with 33 points.

Bill Sarver, the Chenoa long shot artist on the Redbird basketball squad the past four years, wrote a four year individual scoring record into the ISNU books which should stand for some time.

Sarver totaled 1801 points in four years of play, averaging 18.9 points per game in 95 contests. His game average increased steadily each season—11.5, 17.1, 23.7, and 24.5 for the last campaign.

In his junior year, Bill was voted most valuable player in the IIAC when he scored 260 points in conference play.

Most of Sarver's record making shots come from farther out than this one against Quincy.

Shoving aside the books and classes for one day or maybe a single hour period, students board the ISNU buses and head for a special destination. It's a field trip! Whether it's a special off-campus event that attracts a club or a first-hand experience for a class, students find them interesting, exciting, and worthwhile.

Fortunately, the University has 3 buses and a station wagon plus a staff of willing drivers to accommodate such excursions and any other trips requiring a means of transportation.

Every Monday and Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock the federal buildings known as the music annex come alive with thunderous marches and lively melodies. This year Concert Band under the direction of Wayne Sherrard prepared a program for an assembly on campus and an extended tour to Pekin, Edwardsville, Carlinville, Pana, and several other Illinois cities.

Some of their program numbers were "Trombone Troubadour," "La Comparsita," "The Trumpeteers," and "Phedre." They also included various special numbers by ensembles from the band.

Jim Kidoguchi was president; John Chiddix, vice-president; and Doris Griffin and Mildred Lentz were secretaries for Concert Band.

Lowell Masons stage comic opera

Operetta Director Morge Isroel, Jim Kidoguchi, and Doris Griffin view stage scenes.

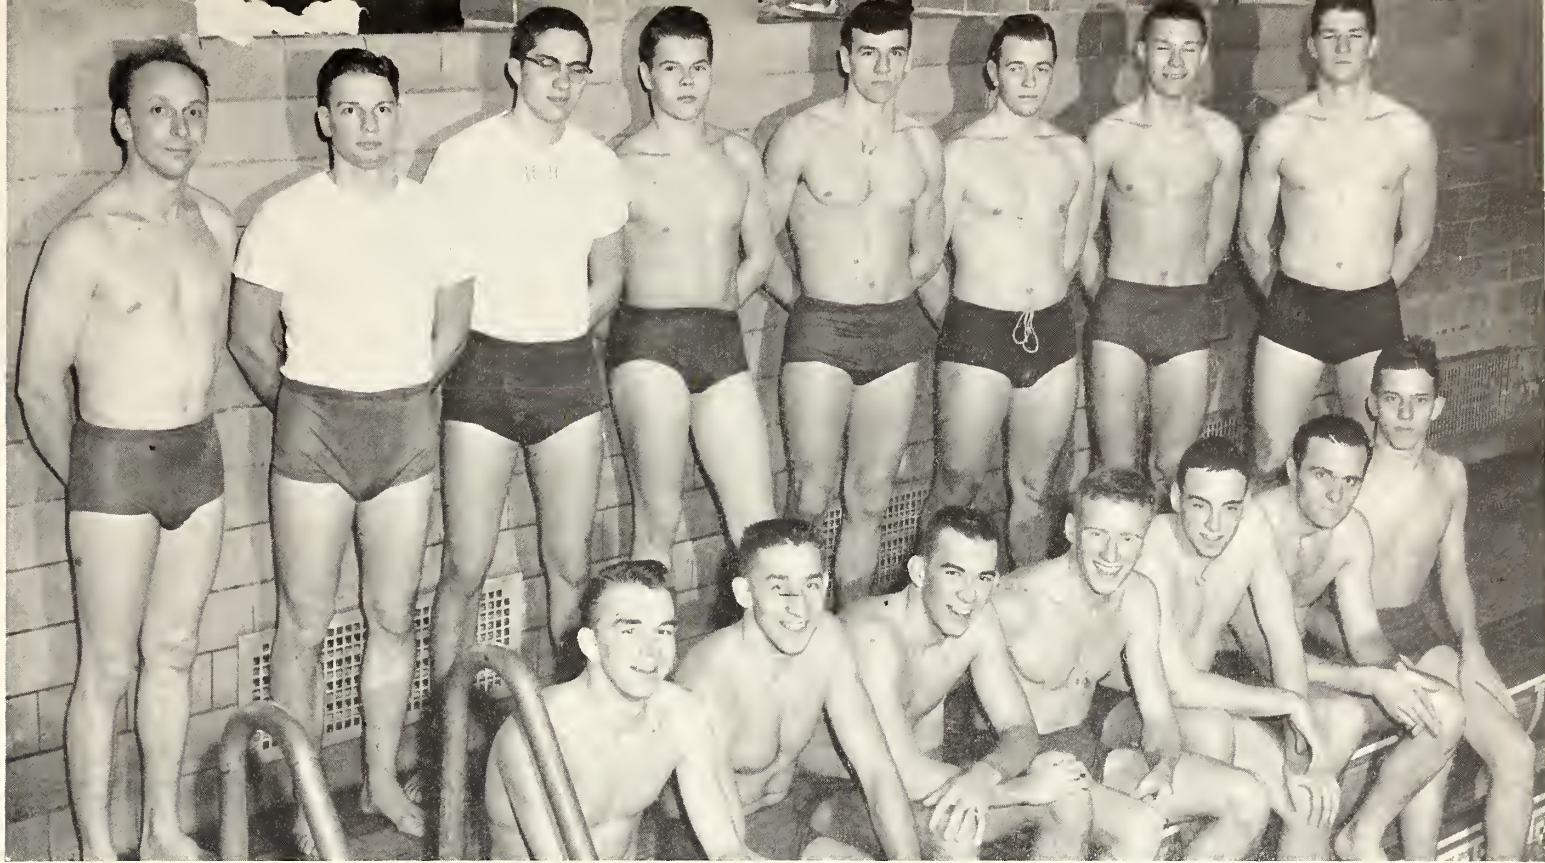

"Patience," a Gilbert and Sullivan light opera, was this year's choice for the annual Lowell Mason production. Combining comedy and satire on the aesthetic movement in England, the plot centers around the "Fleshy Poet" Bunthorne (Harold Brown) and his bride-to-be, Patience (Barbara Halcomb). Until Bunthorne decides to marry Patience, the lovesick maidens express their adoration for him.

The entrance of Grosvenor (Alan Castle) changes the picture, and Bunthorne learns that he has a rival for the affection of the maidens. Only Lady Jane (Betty Mitts) remains faithful.

The opera ends happily when Grosvenor and Patience are free to declare their love for each and the maidens return to the Drogon Guards to whom they were formerly engaged.

In supporting roles were Louise Schultz, Doris Griffin, Shirley West, and Dwane Houser. Officers in the Dragoons were Bill Whitehall, Jim Wiltz, and Bob Graves. Marge Israel, president of the Lowell Mason Club, directed the operetta.

Swimming, Intramurals hold sports spot

A new coach took over the Redbird swimmers this season, and under the direction of Les Park, the watermen got off to a good start in the season by whipping Wesleyan, 66-25. Holding home meets at the ISSCS pool, the Birds were led most of the season by Dave Jeffrey, Roger Hufford, John Galbraith, and Dana Meads.

Hampered by lack of facilities, the swimmers still managed to build up a 6-won, 4-lost record, including a 55-32 triumph over a strong team from Bradley University.

Diversions for young and old

Fellows and girls who enjoyed volleyball, basketball, badminton, table tennis, cards, and table games scampered to McCormick Gymnasium once per month on a Friday or Saturday night. These co-rec playnights sponsored by WRA were a co-operative effort of the co-rec chairman and the men's intramural manager. This year's co-rec chairman was Marcella "Corky" Woods and the men's intramural manager was Charles Rellis the first semester and Norman Jasper, the second semester. Members of the Women's Physical Education department volunteered as sponsors and sold pop and candy bars for refreshments to the energetic players.

The ISNU wrestling machine worked smoothly and efficiently to one of its most successful seasons in history, being undefeated in 9 dual meets, taking third in the Wheaton Invitational, and capping the season with Normal's fourth IAC championship in five years. The Birds launched the season against the University of Chicago with a 27-5 win and raced past Navy Pier, Southern, Western, Wheaton, Eastern, Augustana, Northern, and Beloit without a loss.

Dick Bruno led the individual performers on Coach Gene Hill's championship club, winning both the Wheaton and Conference 130 pound crowns, and receiving the Hudelson Trophy for the greatest number of pins by a Normal wrestler, nine. Ed Stock was the Redbird's other dual champion, having won the 177 division in both IAC and Wheaton meets. At the end of the season, heavyweight Gene Hoffman was elected 'honorary captain.

baseball... and golf

Two one-run victories that were climaxed with mad brawling against the neighboring Titans from Wesleyan brought to an exciting close an otherwise lack-luster baseball season in 1953.

In the two game series, Normal won 8-7 and 4-3. After the winning run in the final game scored, a fray started at home plate on the McCormick Field diamond, but order was restored before any injury was incurred.

The Wesleyan series was the high point of the season, as the baseballers of Coach Harold Frye won only seven games against 19 losses, finishing last in the IIAC conference with a 2-10 mark.

Dewayne Davis, the team's fleet center fielder, was named the squad's most valuable player.

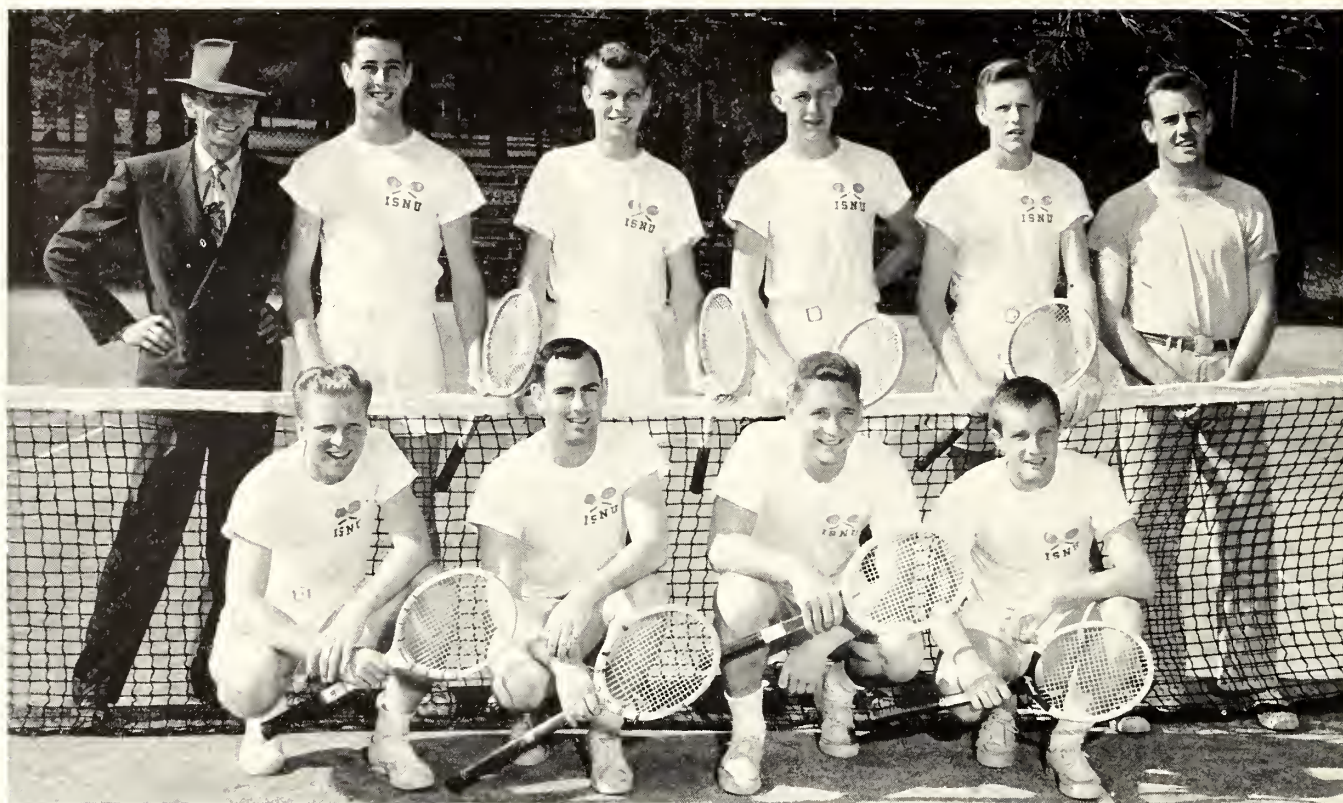

The fellows who swing the golf clubs for ISNU came up with a pretty fair season in 1953 and captured third place in the IIAC meet at DeKalb. The devotees rallied their forces for wins against Wesleyan three times, which alone would constitute a successful season, and Millikin. The Birds tied Southern once and lost meets to Millikin, Beloit, Northern, Western twice, and Bradley, giving them an overall record of four wins, six losses, and one tie.

Swinging clubs for Coach Howard Hancock this year were Captain John Benedetto, John Goodwin, Richard Heise, George Meidel, and Andy Murray.

With Captain Evan Strawn, Rod Senn, Herb Raab, Frank Purdy, John Holcomb, and Adam Gross, the team beat Southwestern Louisiana, Mississippi, Memphis State, Memphis Air Station, Union, Millikin, Eastern, Beloit, Western, Northern, and Carthage.

Each team except Beloit and Carthage were beaten twice, giving the men a 14-win, 2-loss season record.

Coach Joe Cogdal's track and field Redbirds finished their 1953 dual meet season with a respectable 2-2 record, but the ISNU thinclads were destined to go on to greater heights before the campaign ended.

In the IAC meet at DeKalb, the Birds pulled in third. At the district meet of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics at Macomb, Coach Cogdal's men finished third again, qualifying them for the NAIA National at Abilene, Texas. Here they earned a highly rated third place.

Winners in the national tournament were Bob Eudeikis with a first in the javelin toss, and Del Swearingen with second in the discus and fourth in the shot.

As one of the more popular musical organizations, University Choir presented many programs off-campus. In conjunction with the Wesleyan Choir, they were invited to sing selections from "Carmen," "Boris Goudounof," and Wagner's "Die Meistersinger von Nurnberg," with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. March 26 found the singers presenting a light concert at a Teachers' Institute in Springfield.

Participating in all-school events, the choir presented "Elijah" in May and joined with the other music groups in singing "The Messiah." Appropriate music by the choir of more than sixty voices opened the Conference on Religion and Life and added its musical effect to the Christmas service.

Louise Schultz was president; Dorothy James, vice-president; and Doris Griffin was secretary. Dr. Emma R. Knudson directed the University Choir.

Women's Chorus vocalizes

Another all-women's organization is the Women's Chorus. The more than one hundred soprano and alto voices of the choir were featured in several campus functions. They sang at the closing service of the Religion and Life Conference, presented a short program in the Honor's Day Assembly, and lent their talents to the combined choral group which presented Handel's "Messiah."

The early spring months were spent in preparation for the annual spring tour. This year the women's group visited several Illinois high schools. The program included Bach's "Sheep May Safely Graze," "Sonatus" by Charles Gounod, "From My Window" by Lily Strickland, a special Gershwin arrangement of "Clap Yo' Hands," and several folk tunes.

Miss Wilma Schell and Mr. Lowell Kuntz directed the Women's Chorus who held both sectional and full rehearsals. President Madelyn Case and a council consisting of representatives from each section decided the basic policies of the musical organization.

The Blackfriars of Illinois State Normal University came up with a top show which played to full houses for both performances in March.

Combining musical, dance, and comedy numbers, the 1954 production, "Out of the Night," was based on narration about Broadway charms.

From the opening number, "Nothing Like a Dame," the show moved swiftly through dive scenes, park scenes, and nightclub scenes to the closing act in a penthouse.

The cavorting of comic, Karl Smith, the dance numbers of the capable Friars, and the musical selections by the Kappa Lambda Band under the direction of Al Pizzamiglio were highlights.

Spring brings the annual stunt show

It wouldn't be spring at ISNU without rain, tulips, and the annual stunt show. Last spring the Jesters' "Advice to College Students" proved to be the outstanding hit of the evening as they brought famous Hollywood stars—Johnnie Ray, Gary Cooper, Marilyn Monroe, Carol Channing, and Sophie Tucker—to the campus to replace the "usual" at the regular Wednesday assemblies. The clever skit captured first prize.

In a more serious vein, Elementary Education club looked into the experiences of Miss Guidance as she reminisced about some of her former students and their problems. Special Education, presenting "Remember the Old Main" or "We Want a Student Union—Bad," and Social Science members, giving "Index to Learning," did their part to complete the program of original skits.

The entertainment series' stars made a return trip to Normal in the persons of the faculty as they did a humorous takeoff on Nathan Milstein, the Vienna Choir Boys, and the Madhatters.

The Coconut Trio—Donny Aquino, Cyril Chung, and Jim Kidoguchi—entertain as part of Social Science skit.

After they spent spring vacation relaxing and resting from the hustle of the first nine weeks, students came lazily back to campus and began preparation for the final weeks of classes, games, and social functions.

The formal dances were probably the outstanding social events. Beginning with the women's bid formal, they proceeded through the Sophomore Cotillion with its glamour and splendor and ended with the grandeur of the Junior-Senior Prom. The dorms were not socially dormant either and opened their doors to frothy formals, corsages, and tuxedos as the men invited their best dates to dance to their favorite orchestra.

Nineteen senior leaders make Who's Who

Nineteen seniors were chosen as being eligible for the national Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. The names were originally submitted by department heads, voted on by a student committee, and approved by members of the administrative body.

Those chosen for the honor were Albert Pizzamiglio, Russell Finney, Gerald Curl, Gene Hinton, Richard Meile, and Jack Finnell.

Others selected as being outstanding in scholarship and leadership were Sylvia Lemanski, Gene Hoffman, Keith Weiss, Marge Kessler, Betty Rave, and Kay Pierce.

Margilee Israel, Imogene Lindberg, Doris Carlson, Barbara Jacobs, Frank Purdy, Pat Donahue, and Don Rosenkrans were also recognized as being active in participation.

Organization of the proposed Student Union progressed rapidly this year with several student and administrative committees and boards discussing possible plans. The building, which will cost $850,000, will be financed by a self-liquidating program. Dr. Harold Gibson has been selected to head the money raising campaign.

A recently formed board consisting of Chairman Roger Hufford and two members of each class advisory board was originated by the Student Council to set up a tentative governing board for the new union. Actual work is scheduled to begin this summer in an attempt to complete it within the next two years.

One day each spring ISNU invites all high school seniors from Illinois to visit the campus to see the University in action. This day is technically known as College Day.

Big 4's, Exams—both traditional

After spending eighteen weeks writing term papers, preparing for weekly quizzes, or just keeping up—most students found it necessary to ignore the many distractions to spend hours in reviewing and doing the little things they intended to do before in preparation for the last four days of each semester—exam week.

These same days found students wearing concerned-expressioned-faces, carrying stacks of books that were no longer needed to the book store, and breathing the familiar sighs of relief after the horrible test just finished.

Things didn't return to Normal again until the final grades were known!

Donning the familiar cap and gown, greeting family and friends, and taking his place in line, the graduate faces the close of his college days.

Between hopeful glimpses of the future, the senior fondly looks back over his days at ISNU—getting used to lectures, standing in line for books, hashing over plans for house decorations, and dashing to The Cage for coffee. He also remembers dances, plays, football games, exams, student teaching, and now commencement.

As strains of the recessional echo through campus, the graduate clutches his diploma and marches from the platform, ready to assume his responsibilities in the world.

Happy seniors wish each other good luck, exchange addresses, and say last minute "good-byes."

Theta Alpha Phi

Even the busiest ISNU student finds time to engage in the activities of one or more organizations, either related to his curriculum or one of his favorite avocations. These students are well aware of the favorable outcome of being a member of some campus group.

Almost every department sponsors a club which provides wholesome entertainment with special emphasis in their particular area. Honoraries fill an important place in University life just as the religious organizations offer spiritual and social benefits.

The many special-interest clubs present challenges to a student's initiative and abilities as hidden talents and interests are soon discovered and put to work. Committee meetings, planning the program, or keeping the official minutes are just as important a part of many ambitious, versatile students' lives as getting the latest gossip or finishing the about-to-be-due assignment.

Clubs and Organizations

Art Clubbers and President Helen Schromm appear amused at the wire sculpture she is holding for their study.

Art Club

Scheduling programs gets close supervision for grads.

One of the fastest growing areas of education at ISNU is the graduate school. Now in its tenth year, graduate study offers the student an opportunity for more specialized training.

The graduate soon discovers his course of study is quite different from that of his undergraduate days. For example, to keep a watchful eye on each student, an Advisory Committee directed by a faculty member holding a Ph.D. gives special guidance to each seeker of knowledge.

In addition, fifty-six carrels are provided in the stack area of Milner Library where the studious individual may work toward his straight "A's." Much of the work on his thesis is also done there. The pursuer of higher learning might even catch a few winks in one of these "cubby holes." Whatever he does, the grad student must study diligently, for the fatal "C" might prove disastrous to his success.

Biological Science

What we recognize as beetles, butterflies, and worms are commonly known as Coleoptera, Lepidoptera, and Platyhelminthes to students of biological science. Advised by Dr. Ernest Lamkey, the majors take courses in general biology, zoology, and botany plus electives in human anatomy, bacteriology and related subjects.

Laboratory experiments and studies, test tubes, and bacteria cultures are familiar experiences and tools to these students of science and education.

Business majors add columns of figures, file, type, and run the mimeograph with equal skill.

Business Education

The old "hunt and peck system" is strictly outdated in the typing classes of the business education majors. Dr. Lewis Toll directs the department of active business enthusiasts who are interested in accounting and law, secretarial training, or general business.

Whether they are struggling to take dictation at 120 wpm or fretting over a long column of figures, these students are familiar with all aspects of their field of endeavor.

Education

Every ISNU student is indirectly a part of the education department headed by Dr. Chris A. DeYoung. From beginning courses in American public education and psychology, the education scholar progresses through secondary education studies to a knowledge of the basic principles of philosophy. Elective courses added to the required hours of student teaching complete the professional training of the future teachers.

Mary Ann Hoeflinger completes a display with the approval of Dr. Cooper and elementary majors.

Elementary Education

Probably the largest department on campus is headed by Dr. Margaret Cooper. Elementary education prescribes a background in many areas rather than specialization. Special studies in child psychology and child growth and development help the elementary teacher-to-be to better understand and assist her young students. Elementary majors may prepare for kindergarten, primary, intermediate, and upper grade teaching.

Gloria Ketchmark and Gail Britt locate spots in England studied in one of Dr. Hiett's classes.

English

Resting place of the many pigeons, stately halls of learning, rooms congested with students—aged North Hall remains standing. This second to the oldest classroom building on the campus houses, among others, the English department.

The majors of Dr. Herbert Hiett ascend the stairs daily to learn more about literature and composition, while many freshmen struggle to master the mechanics of grammar.

Foreign Language

Among the foreign language students of Dr. Jennie Whitten, you'll find a capable conversationalist. Not only do these students learn to read, write, and speak their chosen language, but they also are well aware of its cultural and social implications. Often conjugations of irregular verbs and pages of translations seem endless, but the linguists find enjoyment and satisfaction in learning to understand people of other nations through language study.

Geography

All those complicated looking instruments that dwell on the first floor of North Hall and the museum-like glass cases of exhibits might characterize the various activities of the geography department. As regular courses of study, Dr. Watterson's majors delve into areas of climate, topography, and geology. The department also serves as an official weather station and offers a special summer course of an extended field trip.

Home Economics

A portion of the Industrial Arts Building is the natural habitat of home economics students who study topics from what makes a popular date to successful family living. Miss Florence Davis' majors keep busy selecting appropriate styles and materials, making children's toys, and preparing buffet suppers. Additional courses in child care and nutrition make each girl a capable home economist.

Junior High Education

A relatively recent addition to the offered curricula is a field of preparation for students planning to teach in junior high schools.

The sophomore year is the point of departure for these students. After studying the general education courses, junior high education majors advised by Dr. Chris DeYoung commence a comprehensive study of child growth and adolescent psychology supplemented by other courses designed for this area of education.

Library Science

Choosing the right book for the right student at the right time is one phase of library science called reading guidance.

Getting acquainted with all types of books, non-book materials, plus learning criteria for evaluating book selection tools is another purpose of Miss Eleanor Welch's classes. There are numerous opportunities for using library references and administering the library to all potential school librarians.

Dr. C. N. Mills, equipped with slide rule, checks statistics with mathematics students.

Mathematics

Proceeding from smatterings of algebra and geometry, mathematics majors delve deeper into the art of numeration with advanced studies in these subjects and trigonometry and calculus. Area, volume, formulas, and theorems are part of the regular diet of students of Dr. C. N. Mills, head of the department.

Math majors complete the required thirty-two hours with special emphasis on statistics, history of mathematics, and techniques in teaching.

Men's Health and Physical Education

Muscles, brains, and interest are the essential elements of the masculine health and physical education majors of Dr. Clifford Horton.

Special activity classes include such individual and team sports as wrestling, badminton, basketball, tennis, and golf. They not only learn the basic principles of each of these sports, but exercise their skills and abilities as well.

Music

Participation in several of the music organizations is one of the requirements of the music students of Dr. Emma R. Knudson and her staff.

These majors may prepare to teach vocal or instrumental music, or both, on either the elementary or secondary level, or both.

Group instruction courses, theory, and conducting are some of the more important areas of study. Music majors also delve into the history of music.

Gitano Nagel plays for Dr. Emma R. Knudson, Bab Graves, and Dorothy James.

Physical Science

Organic chemistry, thermodynamics, electronics, and quantitative analysis originate in Science Hall among the chemists, physicists, and potential teachers of the physical sciences.

Supplemented by further study in photography, aeronautics, and radio, the curriculum of Dr. Ralph U. Gooding's majors is somewhat diversified. These students may also branch off into special areas of interest.

Phares O'Daffer appears pleased with the results of his latest experiment.

Social Science

Beginning with courses in contemporary civilization, social science majors gradually start on a more intensive and extensive study of government, sociology, and economics. Their programs also include American, European, and ancient history. Dr. John Kinneman heads the social science department.

Electives usually mean individual studies and term papers plus interesting subject material.

Dr. John Kinneman and social science majors study maps.

Special Education

The division of special education supervised by Dr. Rose Parker offers an extensive program aiding the mentally retarded, physically handicapped, partially sighted and blind, deaf and hard of hearing, and the maladjusted. Students choosing this field work with children of kindergarten and elementary grades. The Special Education building provides numerous facilities and opportunities.

Grace Brinner leads elementary children in a favorite game.

Speech

Voice and diction introduces the speech curriculum to potential speech teachers. Following up with public speaking, classes in discussion and debate, and completing the required thirty-four hours prepares these students for teaching in their chosen field.

Dr. F. L. D. Holmes, department head, further advises his majors to enroll in courses in drama, speech composition, radio, and speech re-education.

Women's Health and Physical Education

Rackets, clubs, and balls of all sizes are the required equipment of girls electing physical education as their major area. Besides learning fundamental principles and skills of diversified sports, these students under the direction of Dr. Esther French also study courses in health and first aid.

Junior participants and student teachers offer instruction to both elementary and secondary classes.

"This is the proper way to serve the volley ball," says Dr. Esther French.

Senior Class President Dick Meile talks over party plans with Anne Kraft, vice-president, and Marge Drysdale, secretary-treasurer.

The Senior Class

Senior Class Advisory Board

Members of the Senior Class Advisory Board represented their classmates and helped President Dick Meile plan the yearly agenda. Those who served on the board were Karl Smith, Mary Jean Maloney, Mary Ann Christofferson, Anne Kraft, and Marjorie Drysdale.

Others were Lloyd Moma, Charles Aschenbrenner, Irma Scharp, Eleanor Webb, Ronald Evelsizer, Maryann Quigley, and Gay Boettcher.

Helen Schramm, Rosamari Schaper, George Eidson, and Mary Howard were also in the group. Sponsors were Robert H. Moore and T. E. Rine.

Editor thanks workers, lists contributors

The 1954 Index is a different kind of Index. Nothing like it has been done on this campus since 1949. The renovation came about through the inspiration of Mr. Edward Bryan and Mr. Donald Templeton. Because of their faith I realized that the staff could take on the delicate task of compiling a day-by-day history of the school year.

There are many people to whom I owe thanks for their contribution to the book. The members of the staff who worked hard and long but who never passed up an opportunity to pull a practical joke, gripe, tease, argue, fight, or laugh. President Fairchild, Mrs. Dorothy King, and Miss Dorothy Heinecke through whose offices we gained the cooperation of the administration and the faculty. Nelson Smith and Russell Steele for additional photography. Mr. Templeton, adviser, for just the right kind and amount of advice at the precise moment needed, Miss Day for help with finances, and Mr. Gates for coordinating the art work. Don Mitchell, who assisted me in the design and layout of the 1954 Index. Betty Rave for advice and assistance, without whose backing

I might have hedged on important matters of editorial policy. Charles Dominic who was not only an excellent Business Manager but also an unfailing right-hand-man.

The following people and companies contributed to the physical aspects of the book:

Mr. Edward J. Bryan and Pantagraph Printing and Stationery Company, Bloomington, Illinois, printing and binding.

Mr. George M. Floyd and the G. R. Grubb Engraving Company, Champaign, Illinois, engraving.

Mr. Andrew Walters and the S. K. Smith Company, Chicago, Illinois, covers.

Mr. and Mrs. John Watchinski, Carleen Brenneman, and Camera-Craft Studio, Normal, Illinois, portrait photography.

To all of you, I give my thanks.

Keith Weiss

Editor-in-Chief
